A Peek at the Week

*Theme: Students will read to learn before adding insects, amphibians, and reptiles. Students will record key words while reading about the different species, to construct a life-like model, and then place it in the correct layer with a label.

* Reading: Nonfiction- reading for information, remembering all the details to retell and record.

* Writing: Children will write to explain what they plan to do over vacation.

* Math: Chapter 13 this week we will focus on subtraction to 40. First without regrouping and then spend a few days practicing regrouping with strategies

* Foundations: Review all suffixes

* Spelling homework home today, test on Thursday

 Earth Day is April 22nd, so on Friday, we will spend time brainstorming ways to help our Earth.

Looking Ahead

April Vacation 23rd-27th

Over vacation

Read, Read, Read, and Have Fun outside

* Theme: After vacation, students will add birds and mammals into our rainforest.

* Foundations: final week to review all suffixes

* Reading: Nonfiction reading strategies: Remembering all the details to retell, productive partner conversations, fluency and intonation- smooth and lively voice, celebrating our new nonfiction abilities.

* Writing: Nonfiction

Help Clean up Tamworth in April

All month as the snow melts, we are asking students to help clean up the side of roads in town. There are bags available or please use clear bags to help the town workers know if the bags are trash or recyclable items. By registering your clean up with Brett, you will assure that bags are picked up and you're invited to the Valley Pride Celebration on May 6th

Homework Heroes

These children returned their homework:

Destiny, Emma,
Morgan, Peter F. and Viviana

Would it work better for you to have homework to complete over the weekend? Email you preference Thur. or Mon.
